

Paris - 17th October 1960.

My dear Krishna,

Your visit has been most agreeable. We wished it was a bit longer. Let's hope, it will be so next time - when Renu could also join the holy gang. Holy! did I say - I mean unholy.

I wanted to write to her, but I am late. By the time the letter would reach, you will already be there & so she will hardly enjoy it. So I am writing to you - in fact 'to you both'.

The main reason is Renu's letter received this morning. He confirms the purchase & wants the copy of this letter to Philip to be given to you - thinking obviously that you are still here. The awkward "Mendak" that you are, your movements are at the mercy of the quick jumps you are obliged to take, whatever the means - a "Caravelle" or 'jet' - air France - or Air Ind'g.

Yes. It was wonderful having you here. Please do tell Renu that we missed her at every moment. Tell her also that we cherish indeed very much the gift of Punjabi Bed cover you brought us - Tell her particularly how it went well with our Panneau Gothique & how I looked at it again & again. We mean to spread it out only on special occasions, not to use it too quickly.

Krishna rang up. Booking for Mulk. Well, it's done & over. A letter of apology from Arinash Chandra! If he only knew how I care less. A wonderful Radio interview by Rudi due for 18th in Bombay. He sends me the text much to my delight. Chacha Mulk arriving on Thursday. Dinner at Ribouds on Saturday. Lunch at Jean & Frey on Sunday. They are back. You see, you left far too early. A week more here would have been good. Anyway, I've no news about Bal. ~~What~~ Does he mean bussiness? Will it be better if he left the gallery to the care of 'happy bussiness men & awaken the artist in him. If he chooses the first solution, well he must bloody well accelerate.

We had a wonderful lunch all by our self with + nice bottle of Bordeaux. Penny must come next time.

Love & affectionate greetings -
