My dear Rara,

I was glad to have a chance to talk to you before you left for India. And I am sure that I didn't write you before, to India, because I had planned to send you the pamphlet on the Rajasthan "Marwari" townlets before you left Bombay. Alas, too late. Altogether, I have been quite a bit slowed down on account of my fractured femur - am glad to tell you, however, that the healing is progressing very well.

Now I can only hope that you have had a good trip to Madhya Pradesh - and Harma - and perhaps, done a bit of painting there? And I can wish you a continued good stay in India - give my warm regards to Bal Chhabal - he is a fine man.

Let us communicate when you are back in Paris (where I hope to go in April).

Love -
