

Collectors' delight

Seven is a unique compilation of the works of Indian artists spanning three generations

Seven*—a book and exhibition conceived, curated and published by Paris-based Indian veteran art lover and promoter Ravi Kumar opened recently at the Tao Art Gallery. The book is a compilation of seven Indian contemporary artists spanning three different generations—Manish Pushkale, the youngest of the lot to Rajendra Dhawan, Sujata Bajaj,

Artists at the inauguration of Seven at the Tao Art Gallery

Velu Vishwanadhan, Akhilesh, Seema Ghuraya and the oldest and one of the best known names in contemporary Indian art, S H Raza. This book is written by Ashok Vajpeyi, a renowned scholar in Indian philosophy, culture, art, poetry and music.

Appreciating the effort in bringing the book together Raza said: "Seven is a unique and sincere effort to bring three generations of Indian contemporary artist to publish their homogeneous work of art. The beauty of the book is that all of its work is deeply rooted in Indian values and traditions." After the Mumbai show, the three-city exhibition will move to Chennai on March 14, before opening in Delhi on March 26. The exhibition will be on view at the Tao Art Gallery, Sarjan Plaza, 100, Dr Annie Besant Road, Worli, till March 6.

MUST SEE MUST DO

The New Bombay Bengali Association presents magician P C Sorcar Jr. at Shanmukh ananda Hall, till

March 2, at 8 pm daily. A special show will be held on March 2, at 11.30 am in aid of Home for Cancer patients. For details call Ausit Ghosh