

6000 feet

26th Feb. 1986

My dear Gresh:

It was a pity that you could not be here for dinner last night. I had a busy day & ~~many things were~~ I regretted having not seen you in the afternoon. I left in haste a few things for you, as I hate washing ~~washing~~ them. The ~~the~~ anti-mousetrap is for Manjit, & I will be glad that you could give him.

It was nice meeting you & knowing you better. I wonder how was the programme of "Doordarshan". Do work up the article. I think this will be the most relevant & serious we have been able realise this time.

Pierre & Melehi are in the same plane. It's a pleasant flight & we hope to reach Paris this afternoon at 6 pm. We are ~~the~~ flying over large Germany. The east landscape is snow-clad & beautiful. But I shudder to think of cold when we land in France, after so much sun & warmth in India.

Frank P. W.

Warm greetings & love

