

No gallery for Raza exhibition

By A Staff Reporter

Painter S. H. Raza, who came back to India with his French painter-wife Janine Mongillat, is held up in the city with a sprained ankle for the last one month.

The couple came here to prepare for two separate exhibitions billed for April and November at Amenly and Trieste.

Raza said he would be in Bombay for three more weeks under physiotherapical treatment. Later he would spend two months in Rajasthan and some other parts in North India.

Raza is one of three established Indian painters settled down in Paris, since 1952. Since then he visited India only once in 1959.

Raza said, he intended to hold a show here but no suitable gallery was available.
